Gas Bomb Breaks Up Dance

A "gas bomb" which smothered a dance in progress at the Westmount community hall Friday evening, was being investigated by police Saturday.

The dance was broken up after 11 p.m. and the dancers to rout with their eyes streaming and uncontrollable "sobs" coming from all of them.

Police recovered the "gas bomb" container, flattered as it had been stepped on, near a rear door of the hall.

The University of Alberta chemical laboratory Saturday pointed out that the gas was a form of chlorine ether, which is a gas, and the regular use of the gas has been found to be fatal.

Effects of the gas started with what one youth described as a "fog" of gas seeping around the "fog" in a few seconds the sharp smell of gas filled the room. The "teen-aged party-makers" were attending a dance under the sponsorship of the West Edmonton Club.

Ministers Confer

Ottawa Meeting Views Alberta Feed Situation

Serious feed shortage facing Alberta and western farmers generally received thorough examination at the Dominion-provincial conference which ended Friday night, it was learned Saturday by Alberta department of agriculture officials.

O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture, reviews this information in a conversation with J. G. Davidson, Ottawa, Dominion feed administrator.

According to the feed official, the course grain administrator discussed in detail Thursday by Dominion and provincial cabinet ministers attending the Ottawa party.

FURTHER DISCUSSION
Discussion on the Alberta situation continued on Thursday afternoon, after provincial delegates to Ottawa party and meet with remainder of the conference.

Alberta ministers who attended the conference included Premier Ernest Manning, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of health and public welfare.

Other delegates included Hon. R. Earl Ansley, minister of education, and Hon. J. G. Davidson, minister of agriculture.

No action to combat the shortage is expected here until the ministers confer here on Saturday.

British Columbia also has shortage of grain, according to local officials. Serious agricultural problems in the province are being discussed.

Edmonton, headed by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, acting premier, has pressed Ottawa in the last two weeks for immediate action to end the feed shortage.

Liquidation of livestock is threatened in the province of Alberta if no action is taken.

HAIR WIPES OUT
Crops in South
CALGARY, Aug. 11.—(CP)—A drought in the south of the province has wiped out crops on a front six to eight miles wide for a distance of 40 miles east of Calgary, 12 miles north of here.

For four years, the province has been suffering from drought. The drought started west of Balzac and "cleaned out everything" in that community, farmers reported.

Crops in the Strathmore district here were badly damaged. The storm was last reported north of Glenora but where it continued past here is not known.

One farmer two miles south of Strathmore said his crops were broken on his place. The hail, which was reported to have been as thick as three quarters of an inch in diameter in some areas.

Another farmer, three miles north of Strathmore said his crop was "completely destroyed."

The decision to return to their jobs at 7:30 a.m. P.M.T. today was made at a membership meeting, at which an inter-improvement strike committee was organized.

New Governor May Take Post Before Yuletide

By ROSS MUNRO
WINDSOR, Eng., Aug. 11.—(CP)—Lady Alexander said yesterday in an interview she understood Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, her husband, would be going to Canada before Christmas for her husband to take up his new post as governor-general.

Speaking to 11 Canadian correspondents in the Alexander home in Windsor Park near this ancient town in southern England, she said the field marshal will remain in Italy for another month or six weeks cleaning up his affairs there, and then will return to England, and then will make their final preparations for the departure.

HIGH EXCITEMENT

Already the youthful Alexander household is in a state of high excitement at the prospect of going to the Dominion. Lady Alexander said: "My husband was very thrilled and delighted at the appointment which he heard about when he came back to England for a few days after the Potsdam meeting."

"The children are looking forward eagerly to going to Canada, as I am myself."

She said her 12-year-old daughter, Rose, has literally been "saving up her pennies" for years to go to Canada. "They all have been anxious to take such a trip. Early in the war various of our young cousins were evacuated to Canada or the United States, but we decided to keep our three youngsters here. I must say this deal of not make me very popular with my children."

The other children are Brian, at the hitherto age of six, and 10-year-old Shane. Lady Alexander said Rose and Brian probably would go to a day school in Ottawa, but Shane would likely go to a Canadian boarding school, where he would be looking around now for one in which to enroll him.

LONG DISCUSSION

For more than half an hour this attractive woman who will be the first Canadian to hold the post of the British Empire, sat on the arm of a chair in the big front room in their fine home and talked freely and easily, with a good deal of the conversation centering on her children.

Veterans Arrive

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—(CP)—Two officers and four men of the Canadian Army arrived in Montreal by RAF Transport Command aircraft yesterday in a continuation of the policy of moving Canadian troops home by air when aircraft space is available. Another draft of 15 is expected today.

VETERAN DRAWS PLANS OF VETERANS' HOMES.—J. D. Coulson, late of the RCAF, is performing a very useful and a very pleasant kind of duty these days. He's a draftsman for the construction department of the Veterans' Land Act branch. Coulson served five years in the air force and while overseas was with the ground crews of an RCAF Pathfinder squadron. He's shown above busy with plans for veterans' housing in the Edmonton district. Offices of the veterans' land department are in the Blowing-Henry building.

Should Be Highly Popular Man

War Veteran Is Drawing Plans For Servicemen's Homes in City

With publication of today's article, The Edmonton Bulletin concludes the series of weekly stories on the personal readjustment and rehabilitation of veterans returning to civilian life. The series has been highly popular with readers of The Bulletin, and has won praise from veterans' organizations for having been of real value to the morale-builder among those leaving the armed services. The series has been running now for nearly a year.—EDITOR.

By JACK DELONG
J. D. Coulson, 11412 93 street, is one veteran of the present war who should be mighty popular right now with his fellow veterans for Coulson is drawing plans for houses for war veterans in Edmonton.

The former mechanic of the RCAF, who served almost five years, is a draftsman with the construction department of the Veterans Land Act branch in the Blowing-Henry Building.

He likes his work for more than one reason. He feels he is helping other fellows who are leaving the service these days to get re-established in comfortable dwellings. The branch is building 280 homes for veterans in and around Edmonton.

WOULD GET RESTLESS

"I think a fellow ought to go right to work when he leaves the service because you will get very restless if you sit all around long," Coulson said recently.

"I realize I am fortunate because I like the work I am doing and I did not find it difficult to readjust myself to life as a civilian. As a matter of fact going to work came as a welcome relief in my case. From last November to March I was moving around all the time from one station to another, and I was getting very tired of it," Coulson said.

Coulson thinks that a start on payment of gratuities should be speeded up in the case of most veterans.

LONG WAIT

"They told us six weeks when we were discharged but I've been out four months and don't see anything of the first cheque yet," the former airman said.

Born in Edmonton, Coulson attended schools here and was employed with a contracting firm at the time of enlisting in November, 1940.

Western Alaska Highway Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Plans for construction of an Alaska highway west of the Rockies top an agenda which Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem.-Wash.) expects to discuss with President Truman.

Senator Magnuson said in an interview yesterday he hoped the President would see the Canadian government to name a representative who could meet a representative of the United States and settle the mechanics of a road building agreement.

"That," he said, "would be the simplest way to get the project under way."

He also intends to discuss the tariff on lumber and mining products, stating that he is interested in maintaining a "balanced" trade with Canada. He contends it is unfair to the northwest to permit Canadian lumber and other raw materials to enter duty free and compete with northwest industry while eastern manufacturers' articles are allowed to enter Canada without payment of tariff. "Such an arrangement," he declared, "is too heavy a burden on the raw materials producing northwest."

Gen. Juin, who said he was one of the French participants in the agreement, gave his testimony in a letter which presiding Judge Paul Mongeue had requested.

The judge said the letter was sought to throw more light on Marshal Petain's attitude toward the Allied invasion of North Africa in November, 1942. The old marshal is charged with intelligence with the enemy and plotting against the security of France.

The defense was expected to present its last witnesses yesterday.

Agency, was quoting the Tokyo paper Yomiuri Hochi. The same broadcast also carried a Japanese western army district command communiqué stating that "present indications are that damage caused was extremely light."

(The Yomiuri Hochi account said the attack was with "parachute-attached new-type bombs"—using the plural, but later referred to the "missile"—singular. Both the conflicting enemy accounts were re-ferred by the Federal Communications commission.

SQUARE MILE DESTROYED

Gen. Spats said that reconnaissance photographs taken on Friday—a day after the bombing—showed that 36 of a square mile of the Nagasaki built-up area had been destroyed.

The built up area totalled 3.5 square miles, so that destruction done was approximately 20 per cent.

The area of destruction ranged along both sides of the Urakami river—the heavy industrial part of the southwestern Kyushu city—for two miles, and was 7-10ths of a mile wide.

The blasted area also included the district east and south of the point where the river empties into Nagasaki bay. Most of the city is built on the east shore of the bay and along the east bank of the river.

INDUSTRIES BLASTED

The big Mitsubishi steel and iron works, the Mitsubishi Urakami ordnance plant, and other heavy industries were included in the demolished area. They had played a big part in building Japan's now terrifying war machine.

Civic Salary Increases

The civic finance committee has recommended to the city council an upward revision of the salaries paid the mayor, the commissioners, the department heads and the city assistants. It is proposed to raise the mayor's salary to $80,000 a year and the stipends of the commissioners to $7,000 a year. The overall increase in the department heads and their assistants would average 22 per cent.

In principle, this general increase to senior officials is being fought. The scale will only bring salaries into closer conformity with the pay of civic officials in other western cities. It is true, too, that when the scale was last revised, the living index was 80 while today it is 119.

An important point to consider is that the city of Edmonton owns and operates 100,000 acres of land, valued at $1,000,000. In private enterprise, men controlling operations of such magnitude would get double the salaries set out in the new civic schedule.

It is obvious then that if Edmonton is going to secure the services of highly qualified men to fill these posts, adequate salaries must be paid. The importance of the positions is fully considered from this viewpoint, the new salary schedule is actually too low.

It should be remembered, too, that many of the senior officials have reached and some of them have passed the retirement age. During the past few years they have worked under adverse conditions and many of them have continued in their posts under protest.

The salary revision is an important matter and should receive the most careful consideration of council. Aldermen will do well to bear in mind that if Edmonton wants expert administration she will have to pay for it. On the other hand, inefficient men are expensive at any price.

The Things That Endure

Although Japan's acceptance of the Potsdam ultimatum is conditioned by a reservation with regard to the Japanese throne, the acceptance is of such slight importance to the Allies that the capitulation of the enemy may be taken as unconditional surrender.

Indeed, the inclusion of the intact throne as one of the items of surrender may make the victory more valuable than a surrender which left the throne only a martyred memory in the minds of devout emperor-worshipping Japanese.

Unconditional surrender, even without the destruction of the monarchy, is a pretty sweeping affair. Secretary Grew of the United States recently gave these definitions to congress when he was queried on the point: "Unconditional surrender" he said, "means the destruction of Japan's military, the disarmament of its other military forces, the surrender of its conquered lands, the destruction of its war production agencies, the complete control of the United Nations of its economic capacities for war, and the punishment of Japan's war criminals."

"Unconditional surrender," he added, "does not involve the destruction of the home or the family life of the Japanese, interfere with the religious beliefs of the people, cause abandonment of its agricultural activities and its other peaceful industries, and the loss thereof to the livelihood of the millions of people of the Japanese Empire."

In short, Japan stands to lose all those things which she regarded as essential to her greatness and to retain all those things which she affected to despise.

It must come as a surprise to her fanatics that all her time, power and glory are ephemeral and that the domestic virtues are the only things which will endure.

Blood Money

Members of Canada's armed forces and their families will learn with mixed emotions of the dubious plan concocted by somebody in Ottawa to transform conscientious objectors into wholesome citizens.

A few days ago, a conscientious objector who was in court in Calgary, charged with illegally leaving his camp, defended himself by saying that he was told that if he contributed $50 per month to the Red Cross he could go free.

At that time this newspaper hazarded the guess that this proposition, if it was made at all, did not have the sanction of federal authority and that the Red Cross would scorn money of this kind.

It is shocking, then, to learn that the director of National Selective Service has actually approved this plan and now talks of being asked to contribute.

Conscientious objectors have been released upon undertaking to pay regular monthly sums to the Red Cross and these enforced donations have reached the total volume of $1,000,000.

The post-war years will doubtless uncover many things which are concealed of which the citizens will be amazed. That is to be expected. But nothing will be revealed that will bring a deeper blush to Canadian cheeks than this infamous deal which insults and offends every Canadian serviceman who has risked his life in the defense of the country.

For $5 a month, any man who was able to fight could avoid a work camp. In brief, he bought his freedom for $60 a year. Or, to put it in other words, he purchased equality with the enlisted man by making a donation to the Red Cross.

It makes no difference how sacred and valuable a purpose was achieved with this money. The point that will offend everyone, and certainly servicemen, is that respectable citizenship was offered for sale.

Morality of the Bombs

We are told that protests by the thousands, many from religious organizations, have poured into the United States government over the use of atomic bombs.

The protesters have alleged that the use of these bombs was immoral, barbaric, savage, un-Christian and illegal.

In the face of the circumstances, one is tempted to suspect that these complaints are a religious reaction to the morality of the bomb than with their own immediate thinking which impels them to look ever backward.

Surely they can see that it is not the weapons of war but war itself which is immoral. War means killing. It means nothing else. And if war means killing, what ethical difference does it make how a man is killed or in what numbers?

The atomic bomb is admitted a horror weapon. But its efficacy as a force for peace has definitely proved itself in the case of Japan. Without the bomb, the thousands who died in Hiroshima and Nagasaki would have died in the long run.

The moralists should concern themselves with now is to keep the weapon in the hands of men of good will.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The congressional investigation of an alleged corner in the Chicago grain market, in which substantial profits are said to have been made by the use of inside information by senators and representatives. An account of the operations was placed in the Congressional Record by Senator William Langer of North Dakota, who had been a member of the committee.

In 1942, the U.S. department of agriculture had control of prices on grain, but limited rise. This was because the price of wheat was low at the time. The intention, he said, was to allow the price of wheat to rise. It was not part of the plan to allow the price of wheat to rise.

General Foods Corporation, according to Senator Langer, were into the rice market, through Daniel F. Rice, Chicago grain broker. On Nov. 29, 1943, the Chicago Board of Trade warned General Foods, at which time contracts for 17,000 bushels in one account and 27,000 bushels in another account, were held for General Foods.

Metzger, vice-president of General Foods, but by May, 1943, General Foods held 38 per cent of all open rice futures and 31 per cent of all rice delivered to the army and the department of agriculture has been unable to take advantage of the rice rather than the farmer.

U.S. Corner in Rice

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The congressional investigation of an alleged corner in the Chicago grain market, in which substantial profits are said to have been made by the use of inside information by senators and representatives. An account of the operations was placed in the Congressional Record by Senator William Langer of North Dakota, who had been a member of the committee.

In 1942, the U.S. department of agriculture had control of prices on grain, but limited rise. This was because the price of wheat was low at the time. The intention, he said, was to allow the price of wheat to rise. It was not part of the plan to allow the price of wheat to rise.

They Ask You Questions For Britain; War Dead Totals Give Answers

Major and Minor Notes

By John Oliver

CONTINUATION OF THE present summer of concerts at Queen Elizabeth and Borden Parks by the band of the 2nd Reserve Battalion The Royal Canadian Regiment and the 2nd Reserve Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers proved highly popular.

Large crowds were at both parks on the Sundays the concerts were given—weather permitting—a most pleasant occasion it was "fair and warm." Summer days bring an abundance of outdoor activities in the community. Tennis, golf, baseball, swimming and other recreations and hobbies.

JOHN OLIVER provides suitable entertainment. And park band concerts form another feature (indisputably associated with the season). In Great Britain and the United States band concerts have a tremendous following.

In London the bands of the five regiments of the Brigade of Guards, the Coldstream, Grenadier, Scots, Irish and Welsh, are heard frequently in Hyde, Green and other parks. At Plymouth, Portsmouth, Chatham, Hythe, Deal, Dover and Folkestone, concerts by the several divisions of the Royal Marines have been large following. In the United States the Marine Band, Sousa's, Goldsboro's, Cremona's, Gilmore's and other noted organizations made history. Scattered through both Britain and the United States and of course Canada and other countries are many fine bands, the players of which have retired into well-earned oblivion.

All deserve credit. The older players have performed a useful and valuable service. The younger have had opportunities for development. The instrumentalists have been under normal circumstances. They have been able to play in a normal manner.

Dutch in Need Numerous Copies of the Holy Bible

On a recent visit to the Bible House, Colonel van Dorp, who had just returned from liberated Holland, described vividly the terrible conditions in his home country.

Thousands of houses have been destroyed by bombardment and by flood, and tens of thousands of refugees have had to leave their homes, abandoning practically all their possessions, including the copy of the Scriptures found in nearly every Dutch home. Added to their sorrow is the terrifying lack of food, fuel and clothing. People are dying of starvation by the roadside, and everyone is in rags.

The Dutch church has set up an emergency agency in Edinburgh and Peter van Dorp was there last week. When he announced that the British and Foreign Bible Society had already prepared Scriptures for liberated Holland, they were deeply moved, not only at the thought of the books, but because a copy of the Bible is a source of comfort and strength in the darkest hour.

At present transport is difficult but arrangements have been made to send weekly parcels of 500 Bibles, 10,000 and 50,000 Testaments which is the minimum needed as an initial supply. It is hoped that the need in this limited territory is so great, we must expect a tremendous demand from the whole of the country.

When part of the story was told at a Sunday morning service in London recently, a member of the Bible Society would willingly have given his own life to secure the 1,000 New Testaments and 500 Bibles at a cost of 126 pounds.

There are many people who long to help our Dutch friends and the Bible Society would welcome any opportunity of being the medium of their good will. The need is so great and the need is so great.

Report of Envoy's Arrest Is Denied

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(Reuters)—Reports that Otto Aebi, former German ambassador in Vichy, had been arrested in Austria last week, were denied today by the French government. The newspaper France Soir yesterday said Aebi had been arrested and taken to the French headquarters of the French high command before being transferred here.

This skin disorder (Athlete's Foot) is due to a fungus or micro-organism. While it is ordinary, it is often neglected. It is a common cause of itching and discomfort. It is a common cause of itching and discomfort. It is a common cause of itching and discomfort.

The fungus is generally distributed in gymnasiums, locker rooms, swimming pools, and among the like in public showers. The fungus is picked up by frequent use of such places and who expose the bare feet. After the disorder develops the new patients become carriers and may innocently carry this skin trouble to their homes, where it is transmitted to others in the family using the same bath towels.

Athlete's Foot usually begins as an itchy spot between the toes. The most common location is between the little toe and the next to it. The top layer of skin peels off, leaving a reddened, raw, and itchy surface. Cracks may develop which are resistant to healing. The affected area is on a most unpleasant odor.

The patient is bothered by an intense itching which becomes more annoying when the feet are warm—either from exercise or from the warmth of bed coverings. As a general rule, the disease is neglected, as it does not seem to be causing much trouble, and gradually it becomes more severe until finally it is enough of an annoyance so that the patient seeks looking for a treatment to correct it.

As there are at least eleven popular remedies which are commonly used, this is evidence that much confusion as to treatment exists. The patient who relies upon the advice given by his doctor or pharmacist in the first two or three things he tries but eventually may find some preparation which produces healing. Instead of relying upon this trial and error method of treatment, I believe that the best plan is to go to a doctor and let him take a look at the affected patches before he prescribes treatment.

If you have Athlete's Foot, I advise that you continue treatment until complete healing occurs, for the presence of one unhealed spot will start the trouble all over again. Men who are being treated for the disorder will find it advantageous to wear white cotton hose, which may be boiled. Boiling will kill the fungus and prevent re-infection of the feet. A powder may be used inside the shoes, or some other method used to keep the feet from being re-infected from the foot.

As long as Athlete's Foot is present, it is important to dry the feet just after bathing. Do not rub the feet with a towel and then rub other parts of the body with the same towel.

Living Conditions to Change

Japan Becomes Third-Class Nation

By SIGRID ARNE

Japan has been on the war-path so long—since 1895—that her defeat will mean a great difference in living conditions.

Britain, China and the United States announced today at Cairo and Potsdam—that Japan will be cut back to her four home islands. At one time she claimed jurisdiction over 7,000 miles of the Pacific area.

Japan—a major power at the start of the war—now is a third-class nation.

FREEDOMS DEMANDED
To make a start toward peace-time thinking, the Potsdam conference said Japan's future rulers must permit free speech, free religion and free thought—something Japan never knew.

Japan's war criminals will be tried. And the last may include Japan's leading industrialists and bankers who worked hand-in-glove with the generals.

In the Meiji, the Allies face a unique psychological problem. Should he be exiled and the throne be done away with?

The problem exists because some 70 years ago the militarists and industrialists began the idea that the emperor is "divine."

COULD BE MARTYR

Experts agree that Japan's feudalism will never go as long as the people think Hirohito is his deities are gods. There is fear, however, that Hirohito, in exile might become a martyr to his people.

But Mikado or no the Allies will insist that Japan move toward democratic government.

Japan will have to get rid of her war industries. She will be permitted the peacetime industries she needs. To sustain her economy and permit the resumption of just reparations in kind.

From her factories she will be repaid in part from the damage she has done.

Japan's armies will be returned home, the Potsdam conference decided.

And Japan's neighbors want what was left of the Japanese navy divided among them. On nearby islands the Allied countries propose to keep their bases, air and naval bases, just in case.

Danger of Berlin Epidemic Is Seen

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—(CP)—

Germany faces a serious threat of epidemic unless the inadequately buried bodies of 100,000 soldiers in the capital are quickly reburied, the German director for casualty and graves registration and yesterday. The director, Dr. Otto Krause estimated that 60,000 to 80,000 are unhygienically buried within the city, with another 50,000 or more on the city outskirts. Most of these, he said, are Russians and Poles.

Winnipeg Child, Crushed to Death

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—(CP)—

Three-year-old Diana Martin was crushed to death yesterday when she ran across a downtown street while shopping with her grandmother. The child was killed by the presence of her twin sister, Daphne, after the pair had run out of a store unknown to their grandmother.

Fish For Relief

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(CP)—

Fisheries Minister Bennett announced yesterday that $74,800 has been made available to supply the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration with 60,000 barrels of pickled fish and 10,000 barrels of frozen fish for use in European relief.

Some Economic Controls To End After Surrender

By H. L. JONES

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(CP)—The surrender of Japan, when it comes—will bring not only the complete peace Canadians have awaited for almost six long years but will mean the beginning of the end for most of the economic restrictions which geared the Dominion for war.

Government officials in the capital were quick to point out, however, that while there would be a further easing and possibly a revoking of some restrictions, there would be no immediate wholesale lifting of wartime controls.

Continuing shortages in certain lines, the need for food overseas commitments for UNRRA and requirements of Canada's occupation troops in Europe were considerations in the economic picture.

Here is the way the immediate post-war picture lined up:

1. Canada will still have meat rationing early next month.

2. An immediate easing or perhaps even lifting of gasoline restrictions expected.

3. Probable increased supplies of certain liquors and wines.

4. No immediate change in the rent, wage or foreign exchange control regulations.

MEATLESS DAYS

Canada already has meatless Tuesdays and Fridays in public eating places and the Prince Rupert has announced that their meatless days will now start at 4 a.m. on each Tuesday and Friday and continue for the 24-hour period following, instead of starting at 12 midday as at present. This will allow restaurants to plan menus through a full 24-hour period including the late midnight meal period.

It is estimated meatless days alone are saving 1,000,000 pounds of meat a week. But figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed the most picture anything but bright at present.

Cricket

A cricket match will be played at the Municipal Golf Links tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and any cricketers who wish to take part will be welcomed.

It is hoped by local cricket officials to arrange a game here during the sports week with a Calgary side, probably from No. 3 SFTS RAF.

OUT OF THE NIGHT

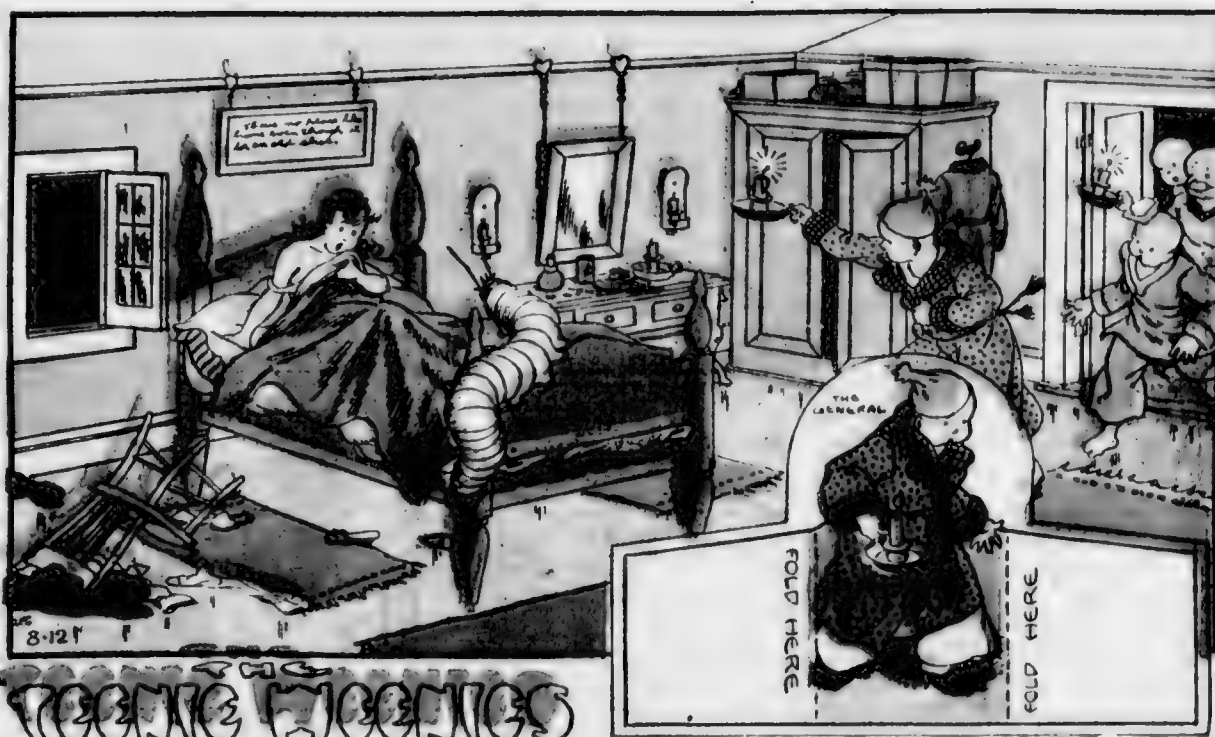

THE Lady of Fashion had been trying to get a new screen for her bedroom window. A number of the tiny screens had been stolen and there was every reason to believe that Ginky was the thief. Some of the men had promised to replace the screens. They had gone so far as to cut out the screen wire from an old fly swatter with Teenie Weenie cold chisels, but they hadn't had time to make the screen frames. The hunting season was at its best now and every single Teenie Weenie man was busy hunting frogs, for frog ham is the main Teenie Weenie meat dish.

At first the Lady of Fashion kept her window shut. However, she didn't like to do that, and she was afraid to leave it open for fear a mosquito or a bug might crawl into the little room. After a few nights of stuffy air, she began to leave her window open—and then one night a dreadful thing happened.

The little lady was awakened by the noise of a chair falling over. She raised up in bed and listened and then she heard something moving towards her. She grew hot and cold with fear as she felt that something was crawling onto her bed. She opened her tiny mouth and let out such a mighty scream that every Teenie Weenie in the shoe house was awakened except the Duncie, who could sleep through an air raid.

"HELP! BURGLARS!" screamed the Lady of Fashion.

The General lighted a Teenie Weenie candle, threw on a bathrobe and ran to the Lady of Fashion's room, followed by the rest of the little people in the house. A huge caterpillar was just in the act of crawling over the foot of the bed. He seemed so intent on devouring the Lady of Fashion that he paid no attention to the Teenie Weenie men as they prepared to attack. And attack they did, with the splendid courage they have always shown. The Sailor and the Policeman caught it and pushed the squirming beast through the window just as the Lady of Fashion fainted. The Doctor revived her but the little lady was so nervous she couldn't sleep another wink. She spent the rest of the night knitting a stocking out of spider web silk.

The Lady of Fashion never mentioned the matter of the screen to the men but right after breakfast several of the little men built a frame, put in the screen wire and fixed it tightly to her bedroom window. Now she sleeps soundly in plenty of fresh air and without the fear that something may come into her tiny room out of the night.
